MARY BEUS AND EDWARD PRIEST DESCENDANTS

MARY BEUS AND EDWARD PRIEST

Mary Beus

Mary Beus Priest was born in Promolo, Piedmont, Italy February 17, 1851. She was the daughter of Michael Beus and Marianne Combe. The Beus family arrived in Salt Lake City, Utah September 26, 1856, having emigrated from Italy at the suggestion of church authorities. For a more complete history of their trip see history of her parents in this book.

Grandmother Mary Beus lived with her family until her marriage to Edward Priest March 12, 1876. She was married in her father's home in Ogden, Utah.

Mary

Her first child, William Edward, was born at Ogden, Utah, December 12, 1877; James Michael, April 10, 1879; and Mary (May), May 13, 1881. Her fifth child, Charles, was born January 19, 1884 at Alma Mine or Evanston, Wyoming. They lived in Wyoming, where Grandfather worked on the railroad. In the spring of 1885 her husband went to Idaho Falls and filed on a homestead one mile south of the present site of Taylor in Bonneville County. That fall Mary brought her family of five children to Taylor, where four more children were born. They were: Lucy, January 14, 1886; Thomas, June 9, 1889; Emma, September 7, 1892; and Magdalene, August 28, 1896.

Her husband worked on the railroad and she remained in Taylor and cared for her family. They had many hardships and the weather was harsh. Deer and antelope were plentiful and herds of them would pass close to the house. Coyotes were bothersome; her husband told about Mary shooting at them from the house. She never knew for sure if she hit them, but in the spring they found several dead ones just over the ridge they presumed she had shot.

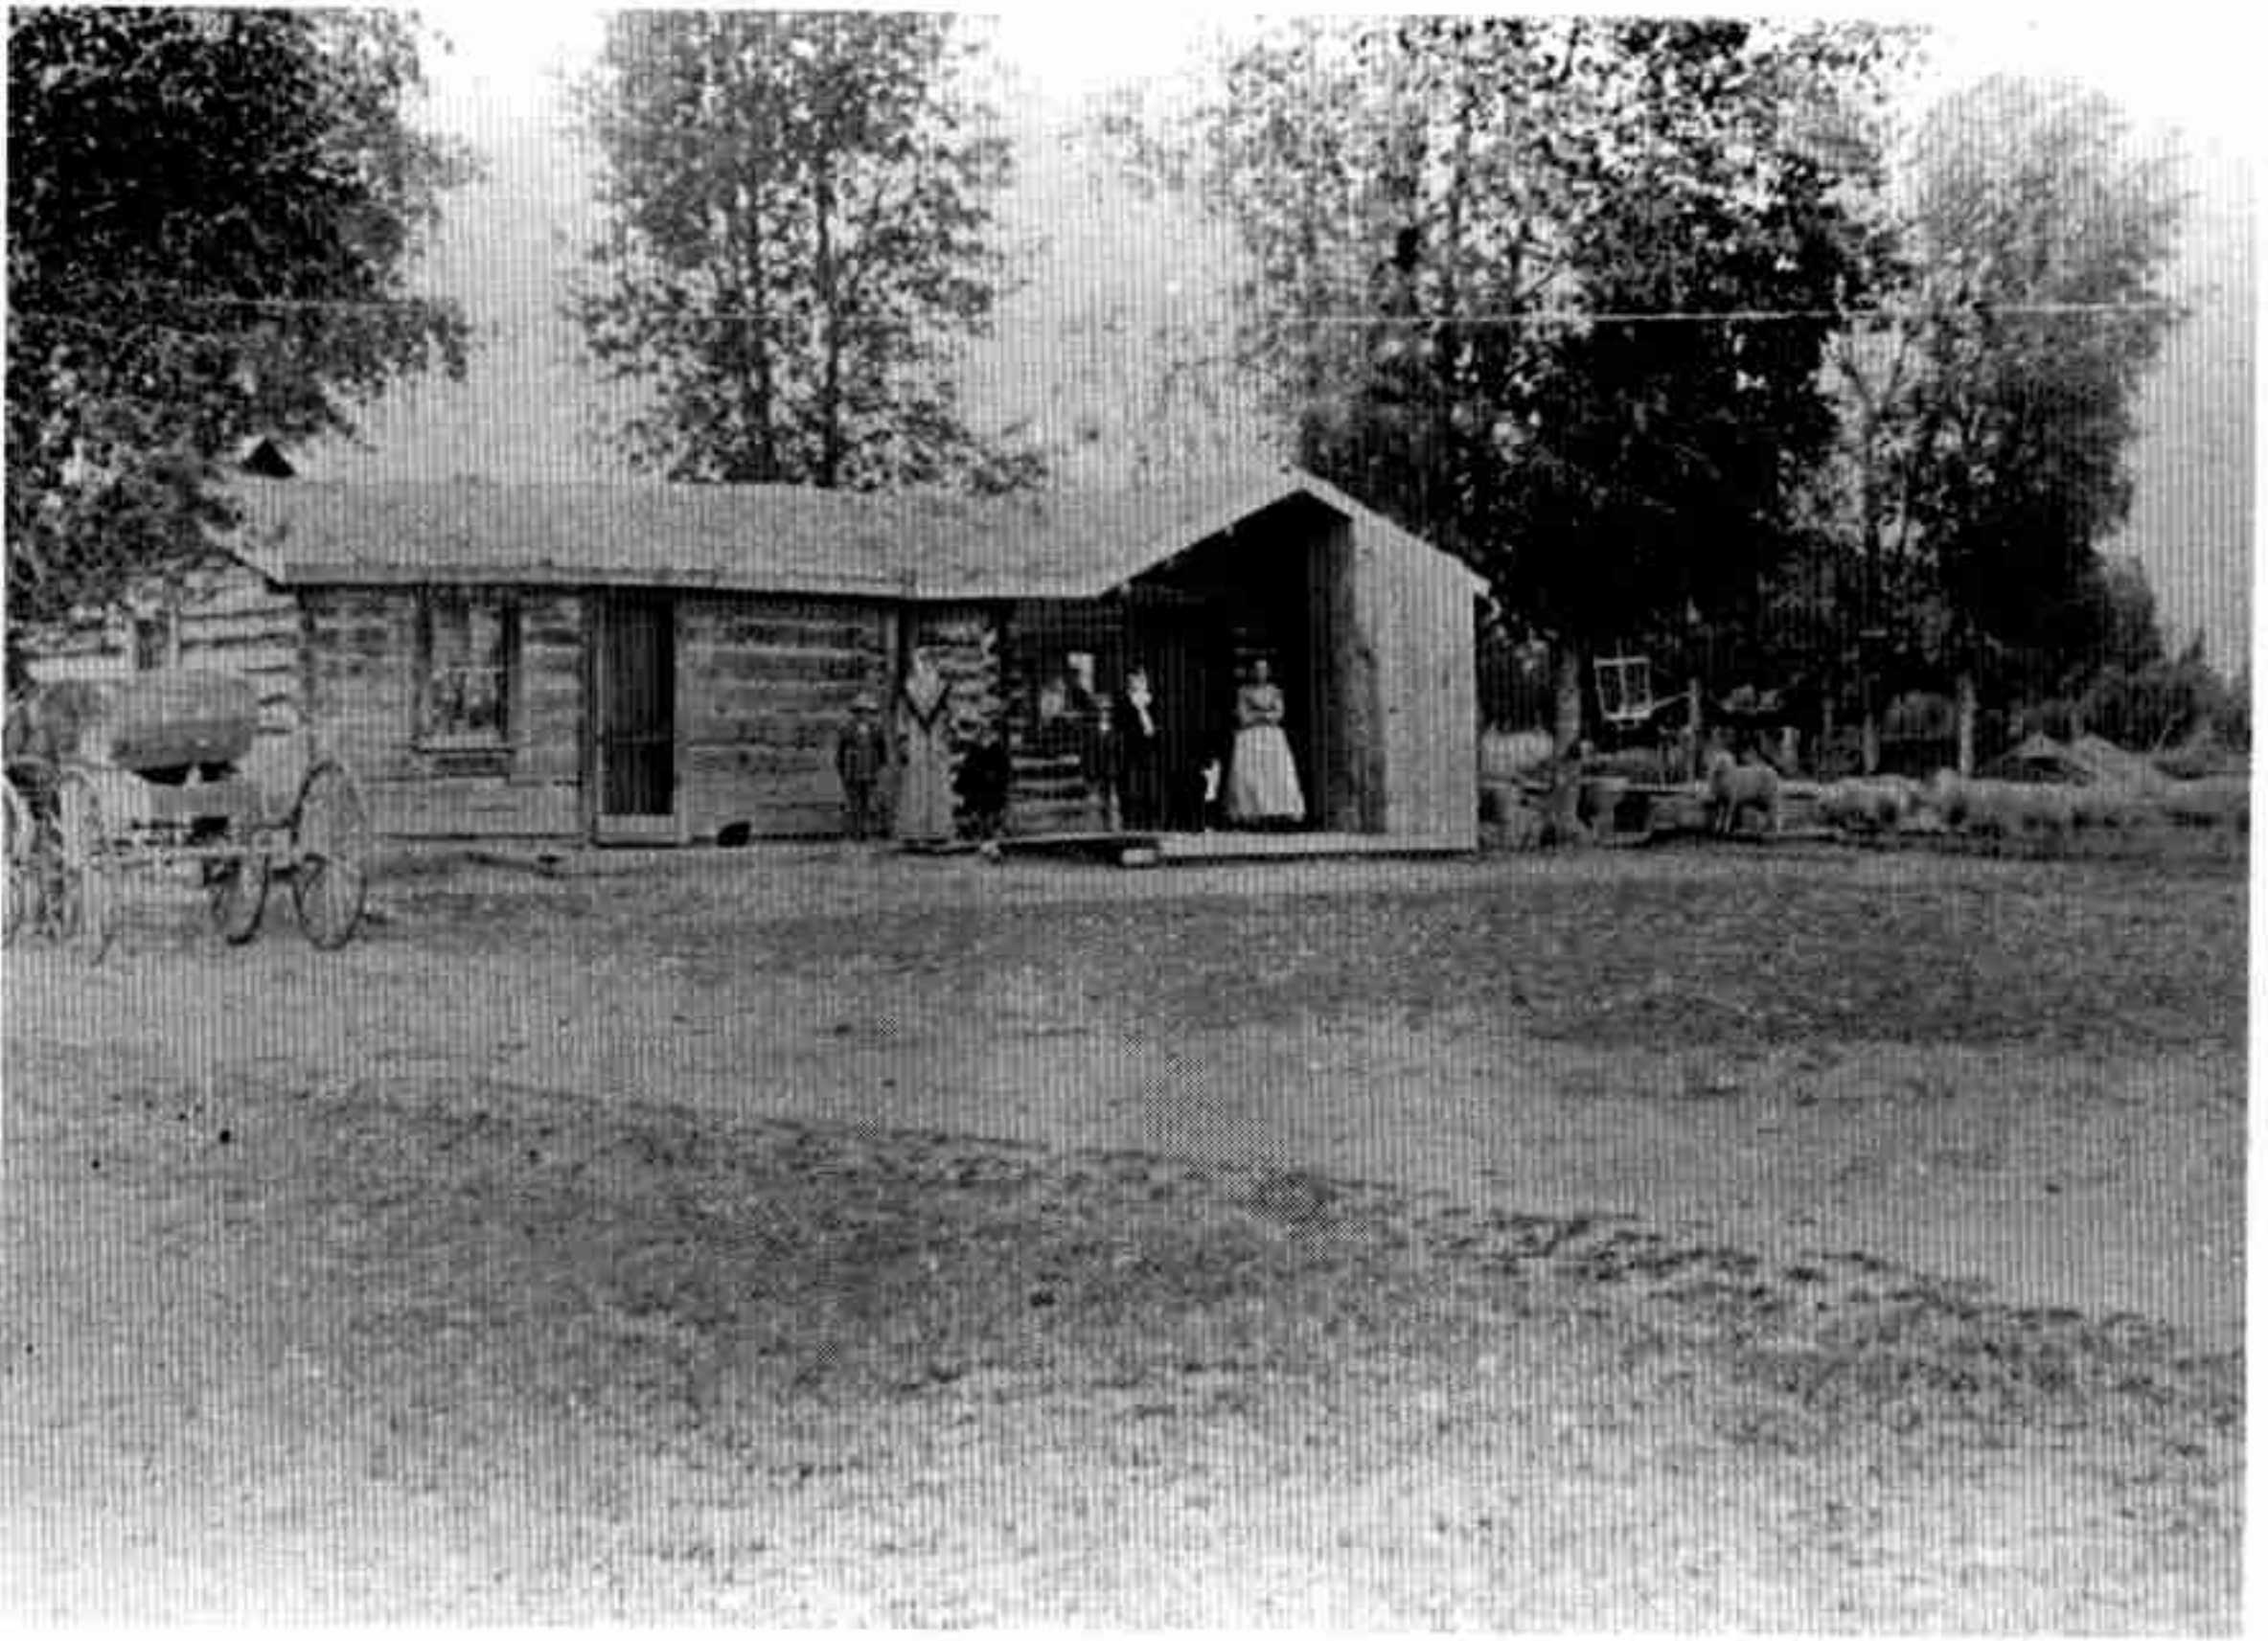

When Grandfather's brother, John, lost his wife, three of the children, Rhoda, Lee, and Frank Priest came to make their home with Grandmother and Grandfather.

Mary kept them and her family busy. I have heard Rhoda tell about how white the floor had to be scrubbed and the girls had that job to do. Frank used to tell how "Aunt Mary" would gather wood. She would put it in her large tie apron and it looked like a haystack coming down the road.

During the flu epidemic of 1918 James' wife, Minnie, died, leaving a family of small children. Grandma took the youngest one, Ruby, and raised her until she was a young lady. Grandma was a small woman. She never weighed a hundred pounds. She was always neat and clean. My sister, Gladys, says she admired Grandma for being so patient and for being so particular with her clothes and the way she kept her hair so neat. She always combed her hair first thing in the morning before preparing the morning meal. She was honest and I never knew of her gossiping about anyone. She faithfully read the Book of Mormon and understood it well. I remember her Book of Mormon as being very well worn.

The family lived in Taylor until 1896 when they moved to Independence, Idaho. They lived there until 1903, when they moved to Union, Idaho. There they lived until Grandfather's health failed. They moved back to Taylor in 1923 and were there until the death of Grandfather on June 26, 1926. A small house was built for her so she could be near her son, William Edward. She lived there until she went to live with her son, James M., so she could help him after the death of his daughter, Lucille. She made her home with James until he had to go to the hospital for surgical treatment and died December 22, 1935. She then went to Rigby, Idaho to live with her daughter, Martha A. Johnson, until she passed February 6, 1936. She lived to be 84 years, 11 months and 19 days old.

THINGS I REMEMBER OF MY GRANDFATHER AND GRANDMOTHER PRIEST

I remember my grandfather Priest as being a large, jolly, happy man; one who enjoyed having his family and friends around him. As a child I remember the Priest family reunions held at the Priest family homestead at Taylor. What happy occasions they were. How Grandfather did beam with pride as he conducted the events of the day: the program in the morning, then the big dinner followed by foot races for all ages, a ball game and in the evening a dance. I also remember a large barrel of lemonade and the tin cups that hung near by. No lemonade ever tasted so good as that. It was Grandfather and Grandmother's treat to the grand-kids.

When they moved to Independence Mother and Dad would let me go and visit them; sometimes I would stay a week or two. Through the day I would be fine, Grandmother kept me busy, but when evening came I would sometimes get a little homesick when they lit those lamps. Grandmother taught me many things about housekeeping, gardening and how to care for fruits. I also learned how to sew carpet rags and wind them into a nice round ball. Then we took them to a lady and she wove them into a carpet for the bedroom. We put straw on the floor and then stretched the new carpet as tight as we could over the straw and tacked it to the floor.

They had quite a flock of geese. Among them was a large white gander. He took me to the house in a hurry many times. I was scared to death of him. Grandfather would laugh and say "He won't hurt you, especially when you can run so fast." Then he would tell me to pick up a stick and wham him hard. I was with them once when my birthday came around. I remember how they tried to make it special. Grandmother hooked up the horse and buggy, filled a large pan with big, white eggs and we drove to Marler's Merc. store at Thornton. She traded the eggs for some material for me for a dress. I don't remember the material so well, but the trimming, ah, it was beautiful and I was so thrilled. Then we drove home and she made a birthday cake. Dad and mother and the boys came for me that evening and we all had a nice supper. Grandfather gave me a birthday spanking that almost made me cry. That last big spat to grow on!

He would sometimes speak real cross to Grandmother. I could hardly stand it, I loved her so much. She would say "It is only his way. He doesn't really mean it." She always kept a large blue denim apron on a nail near the wood box. She would put it on, go out and fill it with wood. She could carry in so much wood at once in the apron! She also used it when we fed the cows, and when we pulled weeds for the pigs. That apron held so much!

When Grandfather took a drink it was a BIG drink. I can see that large cup at his place at the table. I learned which was his certain knife, fork and spoon. He always got up real early. He went to work early with lots of horses. He worked on the roads. He was road over-seer for Madison County. He built grades and repaired bridges. He also farmed and raised cattle. He was a member of the Independence school board. He also worked in the making of ditches and canals for irrigation. He was the water master for a number of years and rode up and down the canals on a horse.

Before he came to Idaho he worked for the Union Pacific Railroad. He was conductor on the train that came from Ogden to Idaho. I have a feeling this was one of the things that caused them to come to Idaho to homestead.

MY GRANDMOTHER, MARY BEUS PRIEST

I first went to live with my Grandmother and Grandfather Priest in November of 1918. The exact date is not known, but it was shortly after the death of my mother, Minnie Elizabeth Priest. She died 1 November 1918 from the flu. At the time I was taken to their home, they lived in Thornton, Idaho. Grandma was sixty-four years old. Many times I have thought of this. All her family were married and had families of small children. I was only 14 months old and had the flu and had to learn to walk again.

One of my earliest memories of her was of her little glass churn. She would often let me help churn the butter. She took a lot of pride in using her butter paddle and molded the butter into one-pound molds.

Grandfather's health was poor at the time I had been with them about four years. Grandma always milked the cow they called "Rosy." One time Rosy kicked Grandma in the head, although I did not remember this, they called a doctor. He came and had to sew her head up with some black sewing thread. She did not take anything to deaden the pain, either. Many comments were made about the bravery of this wonderful lady.

Grandma was small in stature and didn't weigh much over one-hundred pounds. Her hair was black in her younger years, but turned gray in her later years. However, it never did turn completely gray. It was always braided with a little bob in the back. Her hair was never short.

Grandma and Grandpa had many friends in Thornton, Idaho. Mrs. Walker was their closest neighbor. Spauldings, Joe Firth, and Hansons and many others. Due to the poor health of Grandpa they moved back to Taylor about 1923 or 1924.

Grandma never failed in caring for Grandpa and taking care of her house and garden in the few years that were to follow. Grandpa died in Taylor June 26, 1926, within half a mile from where they first settled. I hope to always remember the lessons she taught us all in patience. When he died she said, "We won't have anyone to scold us any more."

Grandma continued to live in the home and cooked for my brother, Buster, as he was operating the farm. I have many happy memories of this. In 1928 her family built her a new house just a short distance south. It consisted of two rooms and clothes closet with new white kitchen cabinets. Later a screened porch was added and a brand new chicken coop. She cared for her flock of chickens herself. In the winter she used to cook wheat and potato peelings to feed them. She always had fresh eggs; often I took eggs to Taylor store to trade for groceries.

Grandma's health was very good. She pieced many quilts by hand. One of her favorites was the "log cabin." She bought me a small thimble. I learned to sew, darn socks and many other things. We really enjoyed that little house, just Grandma and I. We used to do the washing on the board. I often ended up with worn out fingers. She told me I should scrub the clothes instead of my fingers.

During this time my father had married and gone through a divorce and many other trials and was alone. Grandma used to send me down to clean his house and to do washings for him and Merle. Then in 1932 we moved to my father's home. I had graduated from the eighth grade before this. I remember how sad it was to leave her little house. I was past fourteen years old, so I was to have a lot of new experiences. We cooked for threshing crews and hay men. I learned to make good cakes. Grandma had a great desire to have me learn to make bread. I remember so well the pan she always used - it was nearly rusted through from so many years of use.

Grandma always wore a dark waist apron and in the afternoon she would always take a walk out in the yard and around the trees and pick up sticks and chips to burn in the stove to start meals. Often I did this too, but I always used the old rusty pan which was used for this purpose for years and years. This habit stayed with me much later. When I was married I was always aware of the nice big chips which would be found in camp grounds. I always had the urge to pick them up.

Grandma always believed in the Golden Rule: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." She told me many times about this at an early age. I know she lived by it. Another thought she repeated often was, "If you can't get a whole loaf, take a half." The familiar prayer, "Now I lay me down to sleep..." was also taught to me by Grandma.

Grandma's health was good most of the time, although she was in her eighties. She enjoyed going to Rigby to visit her daughters, Emma, Lucy and Martha. Not often did her visits extend past two weeks at the most. She visited her brother, Paul Beus, and family in Ogden, Utah and her sister ,Magdalene, and family in Layton, Utah. She was always glad to get back home. This is where she was the happiest.

My father died in December 1935. The family urged Grandma to move to Rigby, where they hoped to take care of her during the cold winter months ahead. She didn't want to go. I know she was mostly concerned for me. Her health failed fast and in just a period of six weeks the doctor said there wasn't a thing they could do. Her frail little body was completely worn out. She died 6 February 1936. I lived with Grandma for eighteen and one-half years. Sometimes I have heard the remark, "Maybe I had not had as good a chance as the others because I didn't have a mother." It didn't take me long to really put them straight. My grandma lived a long life. She was a wonderful mother to me. I always felt like her life was preserved to help me through the early teen years and difficult times.

-- Ruby E. Priest Storer, a granddaughter

SPECIAL MEMORIES OF GRANDMOTHER PRIEST

I remember Grandmother Priest as very neat, personally; her clothes mostly made by herself and quite often with lots of hand sewing, although she had a treadle sewing machine.

She canned and preserved meat the best way, browning and seasoning the pork steaks, then pouring the rendered fat over the layers of meat in crocks. That was good! Then head cheese, pickled pig feet - everything saved but the squeal.

She milked her own cows. I can yet hear her call "Come Rosie, come Boss." She had jersey milk cows. She kept the milk stall very clean and treated the cows gently. She made cheddar and cottage cheese, also butter, from this milk.

She taught me about timing for a baby. She said she had to know, as she had no doctor, only Granddad. One can always tell, when one feels life of the baby as it usually gives you a sick feeling, and you are half way when this happens. She said her mother told her. She told of how she baked and prepared food ahead, with even a tub of cold water to put the soiled linen in. The bed was prepared also, to protect the tick or mattress. She stayed in bed the first day, then up and got washing done the next day -- no washer, just a wash board.

She took great pride in her meals. One could set clock by her regularity.

She told of putting tallow or sheep fat on sore feet as they crossed the plains. Maybe it was luxury to have sheep pelt cut and wrapped around to protect feet as they walked.

She gathered wool from the barbed fences, washed and carded it for the many quilts she made for her grandchildren.

I visited with her the night before she passed away. I had a new baby and as she sat on the bed she exclaimed "This babe has my eyes," and insisted her daughters come to see - Aunt Martha, Aunt Lucy and Aunt Emma. They agreed. I never look into his eyes that I don't think of this. Her concern that night was for Ruby and Merle, orphans now. She felt she should carry on and be with them. This was only a few weeks after our father, Jim, had passed away. Also, and I quote, "I want so much to see Ruby married in the temple. I feel she will marry this fellow (Walter Storer) one day, and I hope she gets married in the temple." One can readily see where her thoughts were. Ruby was later married to Walter in the Logan Temple. She passed away before morning. I have always been grateful for that last visit with her.

She was soft-spoken and loved everyone, and we loved her also.

-- Lillian Williams, a granddaughter

Edward Priest

On one occasion I went with my parents to visit Grandpa and Grandma Priest while they were living on a place a few miles west of Thornton, Idaho.

Their house was made of logs and set back some distance from the road. There was a barn and some other small buildings around the house. As a small boy it looked quite comfortable and nice to me and I went all over the year looking at the chickens and other animals. I remember Grandfather was clearing trees and brush to make more farming ground. In those days this was quite an undertaking, very slow and hard work for men and their teams. I remember they talked a lot about a stump puller that was operated by a team of horses. I remember Grandpa had a painting hanging in the house of just such an operation. We all admired it very much. I thought it was extra special because of the beautiful team. They were not very well matched, one being black and the other white, but the artist had done such a good job at painting them and they were large strong and looked like they could move most anything. I can still remember that picture to this day, and would like very much to have one like it. Grandpa talked to me about his horses and his dog and other things around the place and we were getting along fine, so when Grandma asked me to stay with them for a while I thought that would be great. Then my father said I would be too much bother and besides that they didn't have enough room for me. About that time Grandpa took hold of my bib overhauls and held me up in the air and said "He won't be any bother and we can hang him on a nail in the hallway to sleep so he won't take any room." When he put me down I was ready to go home. I had no desire to be hung from a nail in the hallway to sleep. I never did go to their place to stay and I have often thought of that experience and as a result have been careful about what I said to my children and grandchildren when we asked them to stay with us.

After Grandpa and Grandma moved back to Taylorville he became quite ill and spent a lot of time in bed. On one occasion my father loaded our radio and all the batteries in the old model T and we went down to Taylorville, so Grandpa could hear the radio, it being a new invention of the times. It was a nice day and I spent most of it climbing around in the trees doing all the things a small boy could to help my Dad put up the antenna that necessary to operate those old radios. Mostly I think I spent my time looking at the many bird nests in those trees and in the orchard. I remember Grandpa made quite an impression on me because he could tell me what kind of a bird it was by the color of its eggs and we talked about it for some time. We finally got everything together and Dad was satisfied it would work. We waited until about ten o'clock at night. Then we turned on the radio. After the usual amount of squealing and squaking he was able to tune in Calgary, Canada. They were having a barn dance and the music that came pouring out of the loudspeaker was an old favorite, "Turkey in the Straw." Upon hearing the familiar tune Grandpa raised up in the bed and said, "Hit the floor, boys. I have danced to that tune many times." He was so excited that I thought he was going to get up and dance. That was the last time I saw him alive. He left a lot better feeling with me this time and I knew he was a grand old Granddad. Grandma was never much to talk, but was always ready to participate in whatever came along.

-- John L. Oram, a grandson

Grandfather Edward Priest can be remembered as a large fellow.

He and Grandmother both were hard workers and taught their family likewise.

He was a leader in community activity, being a school trustee for several years, and a county commissioner also, in the Rexburg area.

He worked on the railroad for several years, when they first went to Idaho.

He was a leader of the Priest reunions, and they were well organized, always with the flag in display. We always had an orderly opening meeting. Then plenty of food. After dinner a program, in which many participated; then games for all -- but especially the young ones -- giving candy, etc. as prizes. And at night there would be a dance for everyone, to which many friends came.

He was a good provider of material things.

He loved to sing, and admonished us to open our mouth at least wide enough for three fingers to be put in it. I have thought of that comment many times.

He tenderly cared for "Molly," as he called her, as her babies were born. He said he would give one hundred dollars for anyone getting a picture of her in her night cap.

I am sure they had many happy times together and he was an honest man in every way.
He taught his family well.

WILLIAM EDWARD PRIEST AND MABEL JOSEPHINE YOUNG

William Edward Priest

William Edward Priest was the first child of Edward Priest and Mary Beus. He was born 21 December 1876 at Ogden, Uintah County, Utah. When he was eight years old the family moved to Evanston, Wyoming, where his brother, Charles, was born 19 June 1884. In the spring of 1885 his father moved to what is now Taylor, Idaho. His mother and the children came in the fall and lived on a homestead at Taylor.

William Edward Priest

Mabel Josephine Young

Grandfather worked on the railroad that ran north of Eagle Rock (now Idaho Falls) to Butte, Montana. Grandmother and the boys cleared sagebrush and did as much farming as they could. There was wild game that helped feed the family.

William Edward's early life was spent on the homestead and working for neighbors. He was married to Mabel Josephine Young 9 June 1904 at Taylor. To this marriage thirteen children were born.

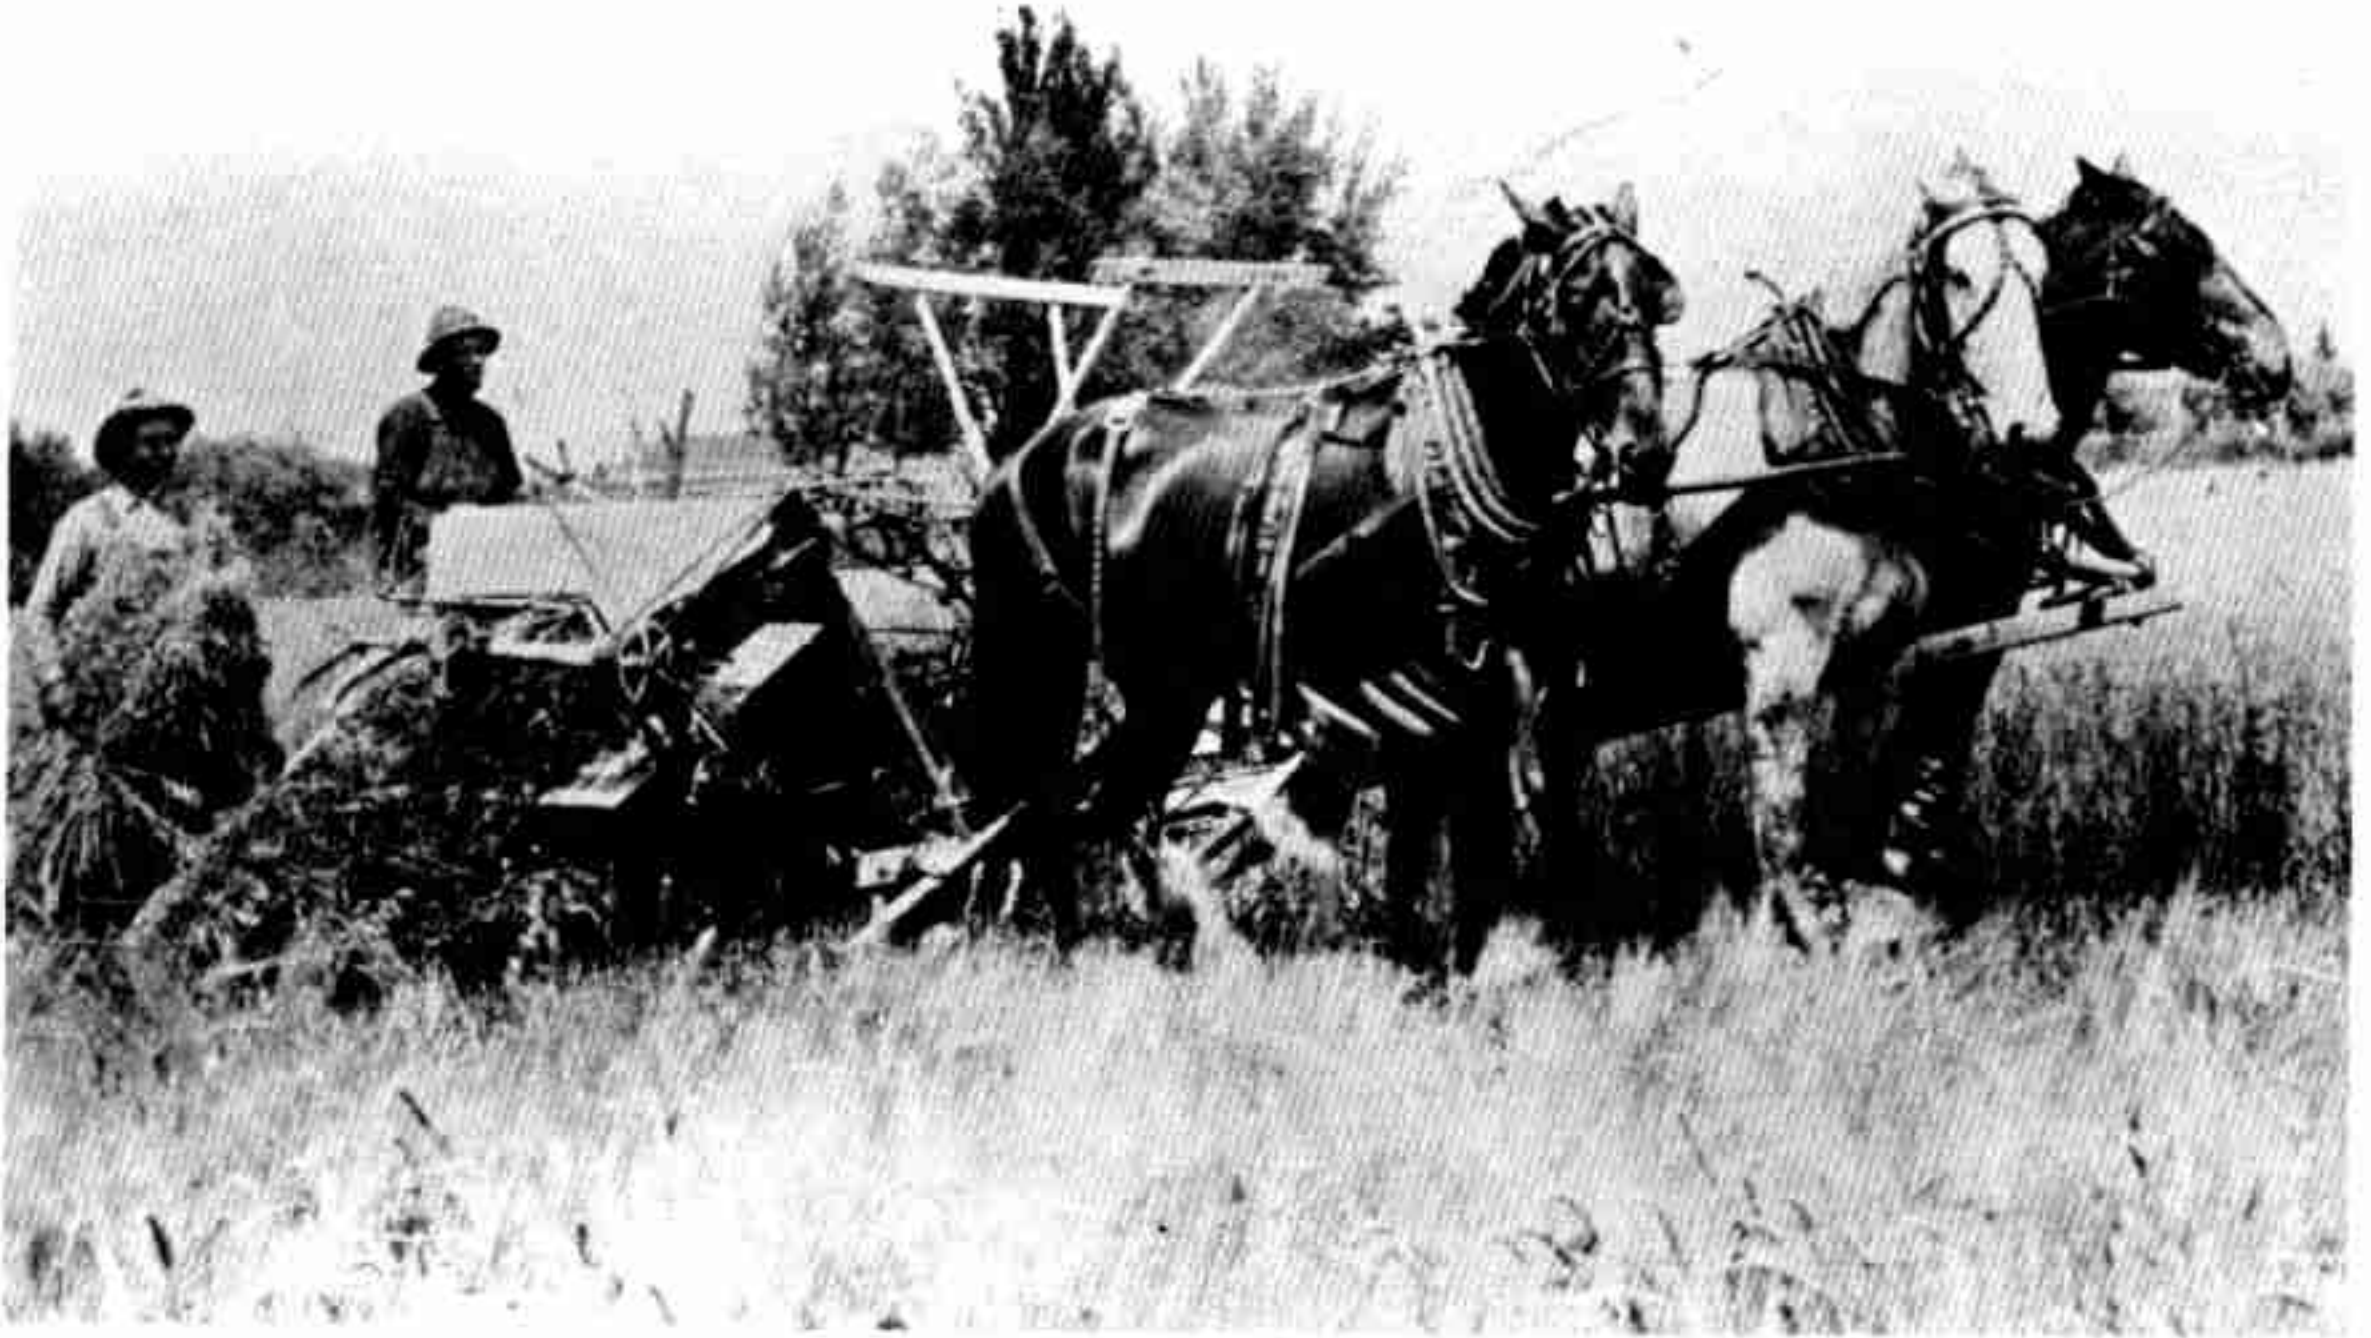

He was active in the development of irrigation in the community south of Idaho Falls. He didn't go to school beyond the fourth grade. He was able to figure how many tons of hay was in a hay stack and how many board feet of lumber were needed for a building. He did this figuring for his neighbors. He was good at doctoring a sick horse or any animal.

He homesteaded on a dry farm in the Quail Creek area in 1915. He cleared sagebrush and raised winter wheat. He had a wheat header and did custom wheat harvesting. This work was all done with horses. We had milk cows and Mother made cheese one summer.

The first summer we lived on the dry farm we slept in a tent and the buggy. Our brother, Vane, was a baby that summer. Our kitchen was made out of canvases off an old wheat binder and the whole outside was our living room.

His first car was a Chevrolet, with carbide lights. I remember he took some friends to Shelley one night and the lights wouldn't work, so he wired a lantern to the front of the car for the trip. His next car was a Studebaker. He liked to watch the airplanes when they flew over the farm and could hear them long before we could see them. He never did get to ride on an airplane. He liked to travel, and went to Utah several times on the train and in his Ford car. About 1935 or 1936 he went to Los Angeles with a trainload of cattle and he had a good trip and visit with our mother's folks in Los Angeles.

Will(walking), with his brother, Jim (on the binder)

Of their thirteen children, William Eugene died at about six weeks of age in 1905. Vane Harrison died in 1929 at thirteen years of age of spinal meningitis. Frances May was stillborn 1 June 1925. All but two children graduated from High School. Bill and Tom graduated from the University of Idaho at Moscow. Parley and Jean attended school at Moscow. Mildred, Myrtle and Oscar attended school at Pocatello.

His farm contained eighty acres with two canals and a road running through it. With our mother's help we were always clothed, fed and educated, which would be almost impossible at today's standards.

Our father was taken sick during the Second World War. He had an operation in August of 1945 and died Nov 17, 1945. Bill, Oscar and Tom were all in the service during World War II. Bill and Oscar were released in time to get home for the funeral. Tom was being transferred from Florida to California and didn't get home until after the funeral. Dad was survived by our mother, four daughters, six sons, twenty-nine grandchildren, two brothers and three sisters.

MARTHA ANN PRIEST AND CHARLES HENRY JOHNSON

Martha Ann Priest

On October 21, 1878, at Uintah, Utah a baby girl was born to Edward and Mary Priest. They named her Martha Ann. She was the second of eight children, four boys and four girls.

In 1885, when Martha was seven years old, the family moved to Taylor, Idaho, which was then known as Taylorville, where they took up homesteading. Martha's father took a job with the railroad as an engineer and the next few years were busy ones, with Martha's mother and the children raising turkeys and working hard to keep the place up.

Martha Ann Priest

Charles Henry Johnson

Several years went by and then Charles Henry Johnson came to work for them. He and Martha met and fell in love. They were married October 15, 1896 and made their home at Taylorville for several years.

Born to this union were seven children, Charles Ezra, Lewis, Estella May, Ellis, Myrtle, Les Earl and Ervin Edward. However the two girls, Estella May and Myrtle died when they were only a few months old. In later years Grandma was to mention them often. She always said how she wished she could have had her two daughters with her.

The family moved from Taylorville to Independence where they lived for several years and then moved to a dry farm at Grays Lake, where they homesteaded in the summer and spent the winters at Thornton. After a few years they sold the dry farm and moved back to the valley.

It was in 1926 that they bought their home in Rigby, where Charles worked at several jobs, but mostly with the seed company.

The years passed happily until "Charley," as Grandma lovingly called him, passed away on March 12, 1937. Grandma was very lonely without her Charley, but soon went to work for the WPA in the sewing room and also tended children whenever she could to keep herself busy. She worried a lot about her family and was always concerned about their happiness. She was destined to have more tragedy, however.

It was on March 4, 1946 that they found the body of her eldest son, Ezra, in the waters below the little feeder headgates where he had suffered a heart attack and fell into the water. Time passed and then, on August 10, 1953 another son, Ellis, was killed in a tractor accident on his farm at Grays Lake. It was just a few days before Ellis' death that Martha went to the temple and received her endowments.

Grandma had a lot of beautiful memories along with the tragic ones. I am sure that one of these memories was of her little dogs. First there was Pal then, later, Lady, and wherever she went you could be sure her little dog was not far behind.

She took care of her home and household chores until 1960, at which time she could no longer take care of herself and so she left her home, with all of its memories and went to live at the Lowder rest home, here in Rigby, where she remained until her death last Friday, March 22, 1963.

She is survived by three sons, Earl, Lewie, and Erven, all of Rigby; sixteen grandchildren, thirty-four great grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren; also a brother, Tom Priest of Mudlake, and two sisters, Mrs. Lorin Lucy Jackson of San Bruno, California and Mrs. Emma Scott of Rigby. It is the ending of a mortal life, but only the beginning for her blessed soul.

JAMES MICHAEL PRIEST AND MINNIE ELIZABETH WADSWORTH

James Michael Priest

James Michael was born 10th of April 1879. He was the third child and second son of Mary Beus and Edward Priest. William, an older brother of three and one-half years, and Martha, one and one-half years, welcomed him to their home.

"Jim," as he was soon called, was light complexioned; the first of the family to have blue eyes and brown hair. He later had a sister with similar coloring.

Grandmother said that because of a stomach disorder he had to learn to walk the second time, but with tender, loving care he overcame this and had a normal childhood, doing all things those of his age did.

James Michael Priest

Minnie Elizabeth Wadsworth

Soon after Mary, a sister, was born 13th of May 1881, the family moved to Evanston, Wyoming, where his father worked in the coal mines with his father. His brother, Charles, was born 19 January 1884. About this time his father started working on the railroad. This took him to virgin area in Idaho, where homesteading was the new thing, and soon Jim, only six years, his mother, now thirty-four years and father, being all of thirty years, migrated to a new area. They were one of the first five to homestead between Blackfoot and Eagle Rock (now Idaho Falls).

One can visualize how Jim, a lad of six, may have helped on this tiresome journey: riding a pony, helping drive the livestock along or maybe tending the younger ones, but surely each day brought new country, dusty trails and a tired one at night.

Soon a home was made for the family, and his father was off again on the railroad. Jim, with the rest of the family, helped in every way they could. Making this their new home they learned early the value of time. Soon they had a lovely orchard, pasture land and the necessary buildings of an early western setting for their home.

Jim was at home with his parents until he was seventeen years old. During this time four more children were added to the family: Lucy - 14 January 1886, Thomas - 9 June 1889, Emma - 7 September 1892 and Magdalene - 28 August 1896. The last one passed away soon after birth.

Jim attended public school, learned well to read, write and spell. He had one teacher he loved to tell about. They called him "Pegleg" because he had an accident of some nature and they removed his leg at the knee, so he walked on a wood peg. He related giving this teacher a hard time, but said he taught them well.

When Jim was young he learned to handle a team well, and hired out, driving a team on a scraper to help build the Idaho Canal. I am sure clearing land and all necessary chores kept him very busy.

At age seventeen his parents and part of the family moved to Independence, Idaho. Jim and Will took over the homestead, dividing it -- Jim taking the north part and Will the home, etc. on the southern part, with the Idaho Canal as a partial dividing line.

Jim started plans for a home, and when he wasn't working for others he made his home with William and Mable. When he was twenty-six years old, his father took him to Ogden, Utah for medical attention. He was at Dee Hospital. The doctor suggested surgery, for he had an ulcer in the stomach area, stating that he might not live a year without it. But Jim was not ready for this, so when his father left for the evening meal Jim left the hospital, caught the train and went as far as Blackfoot, Idaho. That was where his sweetheart, Minnie Wadsworth, was employed. They made plans and were married 18 December 1907. He was twenty-six years old and she was twenty-two when they were married.

Minnie had auburn hair and was an attractive young lady. She loved to dance and was given a lovely silk parasol for being the best waltzer. However, she was dancing with a cousin, Kenny Clark. But Jim loved dancing also. She played the piano and accompanied Jim as he sang. They also sang together.

They loved their new home together and soon had a lovely orchard, many trees, flowers, etc., with new outbuildings. It was a lovely farm.

Five children were born in this home. Velma Grace - 20 August 1908, James Edwin - 6 April 1910, Nelda Elizabeth - 1 Nov 1911, Lillian Mary - 3 February 1913 and Minnie Lucille - 7 May 1914. Nelda Elizabeth passed away on the day of her birth.

At this time they purchased a second home and farm next to Minnie's parents. They needed a larger home and drier land for lambing sheep, etc.

They were busy caring for the two places, plus working for the irrigation company, riding and caring for headgates and turning water for the many farmers. He was also school trustee for twenty-three years, doing most of the clerical work.

Two more children were born in this new home: Merle Leonard - 20 July 1916 and Ruby Elinora - 25 August 1917.

Things were going real well for them. Busy remodeling their home plus more new buildings, with time for community improvements, in particular working diligently to get the cemetery in better condition. He was also a Republican Central Committeeman, which kept him busy at election time.

On November 1, 1918 many plans and dreams came to a halt as Minnie, his helpmate and our mother, passed away with the influenza epidemic. We children were taken to different homes for our care. Ruby, the youngest, went with Grandmother Priest. Lucille went with Dad's sister, Martha Jackman. Lillian went with Dad's sister, Mae Oram. Michael went with a cousin, Frank and his wife, Minnie. Velma and Buster were home part of the time. Ruby stayed always with Grandmother Priest. But the rest of us came home after a year or two. Grandmother was sixty-seven years of age at the time she took Ruby. It was a challenge I am sure, but never did she complain.

Dad always took good care of the animals. They were well fed and groomed. His horses, being his pride and joy, were brushed and curried each day. Their manes and tails he always pulled and trimmed just so they had a natural, not cut look. The harnesses, saddles and bridles were always in good repair and decorated with white rings and metal ornaments. They looked as special as the horses did themselves. In winter times he braided the tails just so. Also the manes had a special braided look. This, plus the sleigh bells on the harnesses, caught everyone's eyes and they were beautiful. He always kept the colts with their mothers in the barn the first winter. And the barns were swept bedded newly each day.

A neighbor's little girl was ill with pneumonia and the doctor insisted she go to the hospital seven miles away. Dad was the only one with horses ready for the trip. Suddenly he came up with a covered sleigh, fresh straw and everything for warmth, as it was a very cold day. They took the little girl to the hospital -- I can yet see him as he came home later that day. The horses were white with frost and Dad with his horsehide coat, cap and mittens was likewise frosty, but kept swinging his arms for warmth: The team new its way home. The horsehide coat, cap and mittens were made from a favorite horse that had died named "Old Fox". He was a beautiful bay work horse that Dad loved.

He was a neighbor to everyone, always giving a cow, pig or whatever to help a newcomer, and helping harvest or plant. In fact they felt he planted the straightest rows, such as beets crops, and had him do this for them.

He loved music and encouraged us to sing, harmonize and play the harmonica. And he hummed or made music as we traveled. It was fun to hear his voice tremble as we rode on the hay rack with him. Always at the Priest reunions he and his uncle, Jim Priest, sang -- never one number, but two. Both of them were widowers. The words I will never forget: "You ask what makes this darkie sad, why he's not like the others, glad. What makes the tears roll down his cheeks, from early moon 'til close of day." etc. This always brought tears from many

Our father wanted to have us children at home, and a companion again. He met a lovely younger lady, Viola Hunphries, in 1919. They had a baby boy, and his name is Kenneth James. This marriage ended in divorce and Kenny was raised by a cousin, Frank and his wife, Minnie. They were wonderful parents to him, always, and he was close enough that we kept close contact with him.

Jim married the third time to Rhoda Robinson, but this ended soon. It was during this time that Lucille passed away.

Our brother, Merle, spent the most time alone with Dad. He marvelled at the way he cut the quaking aspens -- it seemed so quick and easy. They would go together to the foot hills for wood, and on their way home Dad would gather barbed wire from abandoned places. Dad could roll that wire so tight, that as it was tossed on top of the wood it would stay in contact.

His mother and Ruby moved in with Dad and Merle. This helped the both of them and they needed each other. After a couple of years Velma and Ronald, his oldest daughter and her husband, moved to help and so that Grandmother was not alone. They had a pleasant time together.

Our father always danced the waltzes with us girls at the church dances and would tell us what a smooth waltzer our mother was, and quite often a tear came, which told us he missed her - as humming softly the tune we waltzed to.

Father loved his family, taught us to be honest and considerate of others, and to help other in need. There are so many things I could add in this respect.

He was loving son to his parents, especially his aging mother.

He never joined the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, but had us children baptized and encouraged us to attend. And he always assisted by donating to their sales and attending the socials and dances with us.

In his later years that ulcer bothered him so very much and it finally was the factor of his death. He passed away 21 December 1935 at the age of fifty-six years, each year saying "I've lived another year."

He was buried in the cemetery that he had worked so hard to beautify, next to his dear wife and two daughters, leaving many memories of happiness and tears. We loved him.

MARY (MAY) PRIEST AND JOHN GIDEON ORAM

May Priest

My mother was born at Uintah, Utah May 13th, 1882, the daughter of Edward Priest and Mary Beus Priest. She was blessed and given the name of Mary. But she was seldom called Mary, for almost from her very first days she was also given the nick name of "May", having been born in the month of May. Thus she went through life called Mary May.

When mother was between four and five years old her parents moved to Taylorville, Idaho. Here they filed on a homestead near what is known as Taylor Mountain. When she was a girl she and her brothers used to herd their cattle around on the lower part of the mountain. A little farther down in the valley were a few big sand knolls, and I have heard mother tell about watching the Indians circle around these knolls and shoot their arrows at some animal they would have trapped between the knolls. I have also heard her tell of having the Indians come and look in their windows at night and if there was no man around they would come in and take food and clothing. She was always thankful that none of the family was ever harmed by the Indians. She grew to young womanhood at Taylorville, and then spent some time attending school at Ogden, Utah. She studied dress making and millinery.

One evening she attended a dance at Shelley and it was there that she met father, John G. Oram. A romance ensued, and on May 23rd, 1903 at the old homestead they were married by N. C. Mickelson of Shelley. After the marriage they set up housekeeping at Shelley. It was there that I was born to them on March 5th, 1904. After a few years they moved to Lorenzo, Idaho. Mother was a very good seamstress and at Lorenzo she opened a dress shop. She made dresses and trimmed hats. Millinery business was quite a thing in those days. This business burned down along with my father's grocery store.

It was at Lorenzo that my brothers, Lloyd, Ted and Arch were born. After the fire they homesteaded a ranch east of Lorenzo. They lived there for a few years and then sold out and moved to Rigby, Idaho. At Rigby my brother, Lyle, was born.

Mother loved her home very much. It was her center of attraction. She was always busy making dresses and trimming hats for ladies who would order them. She also raised and sold canary birds. She was a good housekeeper, and a very good cook. She was very fond of flowers and needle work of all kinds. I still have a few choice lace patterns of her making. She was very much a mother and loved and cared for her children. I think many times of the sacrifices she made for our happiness and welfare.

On December 31, 1920 my sister, Mary May, was born at the L. D. S. Hospital in Salt Lake City, Utah. On January 6th 1921 mother died due to birth complications. She was buried January 10th, 1921 at Taylorville cemetery, near the scenes of her childhood.

Mary (Mae) Priest

John Gideon Oram

John Gideon Oram was born December 13, 1882 at Ogden, Utah, the son of Richard Oram and Phoebe Saunders. He was their fourth child and their third son. His parents were of English descent and arrived in Ogden as young people. When he was eight years old he was baptized into the L.D.S. Church. When he was about nine years old his parents moved to Collingston, Utah. He lived in Collingston with his parents until he was a teenage youth, then he got the wanderlust and came to Idaho with the Jimmett family. He arrived in Idaho April 11, 1896. He secured work herding cattle for George Monroe and the Jimmetts. He kept this job and lived with the Jimmett family four or five years. Then he went back home and visited his family. He didn't stay very long. Somehow Idaho had gotten into his blood, and he soon came back. It was during these years that his love for the great outdoors began, love of streams, mountains, lakes, trees, birds and flowers.

John Gideon Oram

One evening, feeling rather happy and gay, and seeking some kind of entertainment he went with some friends to attend a dance at Shelley, a little nearby town. It was at this dance that he met Mary May Priest. It was a case of love at first sight, and after a short courtship they decided to be married. The marriage took place May 23rd, 1903 at the Priest home in Taylorville. The ceremony was performed by N. C. Mickelson of Shelley. They began housekeeping at Shelley and their first child, Thelma, was born there. The young family moved to Lorenzo, Idaho, where he operated a grocery store and his wife a millinery store. Their sons Lloyd, Ted, and Arch were born at Lorenzo. Misfortune came to them when their business was destroyed by fire.

Shortly afterward they homesteaded a ranch east of Lorenzo. The place was called Sunny Dell. The land was covered with brush. After preparing it around the edges he hauled in some straw, waited for a day when the wind was right and then set it afire. It burned off pretty good.

He grubbed out the stumps and the family carried off the pieces too large to leave on the land. That fall he plowed it and planted it to fall wheat. They lived on the farm several years, then sold it and moved to Rigby. Here the youngest son, Lyle, was born. Their youngest daughter, May, was born at Salt Lake City, December 31st, 1920, and on January 6th, 1921 the mother died. She was buried at Taylorville, Idaho, near her childhood home.

During the next several years the Oram children, under the watchful eye and kindly care of their father remained together in the family home. His sister, Maryann Stephens took the small baby and cared for her.

Several years later he married Maude Scott Bothe, who throughout her life was respected and loved by the Oram family. She helped with the rearing of Lyle, who was a small boy at the time. She passed away July 19th, 1952.

The same thoroughness and resolute determination which was manifested throughout a lifetime stood Jack Oram well ahead of many, for his children needed guidance and kindness and these were supplied as he modestly watched each of them attend high school, graduate and take their places in a society where only the stouthearted forge ahead. As they have married and have families of their own, his interest and pride have extended to his grandchildren. Along main street for many years, he was a man whose friends were legion. He held the respect of his fellow men, his concepts of living were high and he was one of those who always had time to inquire about the well-being of others. Some people are born with almost a fierce loyalty to those ideals and places they hold dear, and it was so with Jack Oram. His affections for his family and friends were deep and genuine, and the same loyal feeling was manifested in the community where he lived. He was alone for many years after the death of Mrs. Oram in 1952, but his home and flower garden remained to be a delight to his family and neighbors. They stood as a symbol of his love of nature's bounty. The fishing streams of this area were often sanctuaries, as he shared them with his wife or friends in that restful pastime, just fishin!

Fraternally and civically, his years were filled with services, having been a member of the Rigby city council, various service organizations. As a deputy game warden he assisted in formulating the fish and game regulations and in planting fish. His interest in life and wild life belong to that era of men who were truly sportsmen of the highest order. For a long time he was active in Masonic circles, serving as worshipful master of Eagle Rock Lodge No. 19 A.F. and A.M. Idaho Falls, and the Shriners hospital for children in Salt Lake was always one of his pet projects.

When the Oram family first came to Rigby, he bought the business of Ed. Wheeler, who operated a pool room and barber shop on the north side of Main street. He managed this business for a time and then sold out to Bill Fisher. Then he bought the Stag Cigar Store from Armet Lyons. This business was located in the Peck building, now the Reed Drug. After a few years in business there, he felt it was time to own his own building, so he bought the Iris Theater building from George H. Thomas. After extensive remodeling of the building he moved his business in and added all kinds of sporting equipment. Everything for the fisherman and hunter. After several years he leased his building to the Gem Theater and moved his business into the Quality Store building, where he built Rigby's first bowling alley. He felt this would go along well with the sporting equipment. The night before he was to open in this new location the building went up in flames. Thus he suffered a second business loss to fire.

At this time his plans were indefinite and he accepted a position with the state highway department, where he worked on the roads and enjoyed the outside warmth and sunshine. At the expiration of the Gem Theater lease he resumed business in his building and remained in business until he retired.

To one who chose Idaho and never wanted to leave it, we feel that the words of an adopted son of Idaho expresses the feeling of Jack Oram.

"I love Idaho for the future it holds. I shall not live to see the day when all the valleys and plains have been transformed, but the day will come. And to have had but one small share in its beginning will be reward enough. That is why I love Idaho with a love akin to passion. And is why, when my short day is done, I should like to find a resting place not far from the music of its mountains, streams and the sighing of the pines.

John Gideon Oram died June 9th, 1960, at Rigby. He was buried June 13th, 1960 at Taylorville, near Mary May, the mother of his children.

CHARLES PRIEST AND NANCY ADELIA WHITTAKER

Charles Priest

Charles Priest was born 19 January 1884 at Evanston, Wyoming. He was the third son and fifth child of Edward and Mary Beus Priest.

This picture depicts the love of his life. He herded sheep for many years. He made very good sour-dough bread.

He and my father, Jim, were in the business about 1918. Charles did the herding and they lambbed at our home.

Charles Priest and Nancy Adelia whittaker

He loved to sing and yodel, and seemed to be happy in his choice of life.

On Nov 1, 1915 he married Nancy Adelia Whittaker. No natural children came of this union but he and Adelia took a cousin to raise, when her mother passed away. Her name was Marie, but they called her "Dick." This marriage ended in divorce, but Marie continued contact with Uncle Charles. I am not sure what happened to her adopted mother.

One song he sang was "The Preacher and the Bear." He also wrote the words to this in my mother's song book, and he was a good penman.

THOMAS PRIEST AND MARGARET MCGARRY

Thomas Priest

Thomas Priest

Tom was the seventh child in the family of nine children of Mary Beus Priest and Edward Priest. He was born June 8, 1888 at Taylor, Idaho, where his parents had a farm. His mother and his older brothers and sisters for the most part ran the farm as his father was a brakeman on the Union Pacific Railroad Branch line to Idaho Falls and was away from home a great deal of the time. Later his father worked as a water boss for the Idaho Canal, which also meant a considerable amount of time was spent away from his family. This meant that wherever they lived there were always numerous chores to be done. They usually raised thirteen or fourteen dairy cows along with a small herd of sheep, and some chickens, pigs, ducks, geese and guinea hens. Often they raised pigs. Besides caring for the horses and all the animals, there was wood to be cut and carried in the house; gardens to be planted, weeded and watered, and land to be brought under cultivation.

Tom lived at Taylor until he was about nine years old, when his folks moved to Independence, Idaho. He attended school there until the beginning of his eighth grade, when they moved a short distance to Thornton, Idaho, route one. They lived about a mile from the Union School. As was customary in those days, the teachers boarded and roomed with various parents of the children attending school. They lived close enough that his parents frequently had a teacher boarder.

Tom and his sister Emma had chores to do after school hours, but there was still a little time for fishing and hunting. At one time they had pigs to herd while a fence was being built, and they had to be kept between the canal and the garden area. It seems that the dog couldn't handle this chore all by himself, while Emma and Tom fished, so many reprimands followed.

Also they were clearing land for cultivation and many trees had to be felled and the stumps removed. This could have been done many different ways and certainly was, but often much discussion and argument ensued. When you homesteaded land in those days you took on a whole self-supporting life style. You were some distance from your neighbors, with only your animals as transportation. You had to have courage and stability to withstand all the obstacles you were confronted with and I'm sure families grew in strength as they banded together in their ventures.

Tom's folks were living here at Thornton when he left home to make his own life. He was only seventeen, the youngest boy and very close to his mother, but he worked at ranches close by, always keeping in touch with her. His sister, Lucy, remembers packing a few clothes in his saddle bag for him while he saddled his horse and then left. Those were sad partings, but the sisters and brothers always kept in touch with each other and especially with their mother.

Tom stayed with the Lyman boys several days before going to work for Dave Spaulding. He worked on the ranch for him for a year or more and then went to work for McGarry. These were ranchers in the Independence area. Henry's son, Pete McGarry, and Tom had been school mates at Independence grade school and had become close friends. The McGarry family welcomed Tom as part of their family, years before he and Margaret were married. Tom and Pete were a handful for Henry and Isabell as they both enjoyed a good cutter or buggy race. They worked hard on the ranch, but they enjoyed the cattle drives and the summers at Kilgore, when they put the cattle on the range and stayed long enough to raise some hay. In the book entitled "The Making of a State," stories and pictures are shown of some of them as they were of the first families of the first settlers of that part of the land. They were truly pioneers in Idaho.

Tom was twenty-four when he and Margaret McGarry were married. Pete and Flossie Jones were married the same year and Henry McGarry set them both up with a house on the farm, furniture, livestock, machinery, and they worked the ranch and cattle with him. He and Isabell moved into Rexburg, but they all shared this interest in the ranch. Tom and Margaret's first child, Cora, was born while they were living here, and two years later their second daughter, Lelah, was born.

In about 1917, Tom decided to homestead a dry farm in a part of the country known as Bone area. It was located near Grays Lake, Idaho, north east of Idaho Falls. It was a family venture, as his brother, Charl and wife, sister, Martha and husband and sister, Lucy and her husband all went up about the same time. What a rugged test this proved to be. The land wasn't good for anything but grazing because of the lack of water. The winters were severe and there weren't any schools for the children to attend, so they all came back to the valley for the winter months. Those treks up in the spring and back in the fall were strenuous experiences. They drove the cattle and the horses; hauled the chickens and ducks; the bedding and food and clothing, plus the children, were piled high on the wagons. It is no small wonder that there were mistaken for gypsies once. Certain improvements had to be made on the land each year. Part of this was fencing and building on the land. Water was very scarce and there was little rain. Drinking water had to be hauled in barrels from a spring a half mile away. A well was dug on Tom's place, but they had to go down so far and when they did hit water it was so hard and the color of red mineral. Tom and Margaret made numerous improvements on their place, such as a two-room house built with rough limber, which they hauled from the sawmill located about ten miles away. They also had a log barn and a high pole fence for live stock. They would raise and cut hay in the meadows to feed their live stock, and they had a portion of their place ploughed up for cultivation. They always had a big garden and hoped for rain or water enough to make things grow. A welcome addition to their little house was a porch consisting of poles as posts and a roof made of branches from trees. Tom erected a wonderful swing for us two girls. By this time we had a baby brother, Tommy. He was three and a half years younger than Lelah, and five and half younger than myself. I recall my mother always being busy with cooking, sewing, canning or gardening, but she was never too busy that she didn't listen and talk to us. If we found a new flower or a different rock she was the one we took it too. We always shared our thoughts with her. Dad entertained us with his singing and playing the harmonica. I am sure we memorized all his favorite songs that way. When we were quite small he would dance with us standing on his shoes.

Many happy experiences have been related about the picnics and parties and dances at the Holden ranch when Parley Short played the violin and someone else played the accordion. They also used to pick huckleberries on Sugar Loaf Mountain, and always celebrated the fourth twenty-fourth of July.

Margaret's folks, the McGarry's, would always make a trip up to the dry farm late in the summer and Cora would go home with them to get started to school. This way they could stay a little longer.

By fall the creeks were always low and easy to cross, but each spring they had to be forded when the water would almost float the wagon box. Many times two teams were needed to get a wagon across. It was a difficult two-day trip and often they were caught in a rain and thunder storm. Can you imagine the struggle and challenge it was. The cattle and live stock had to be driven, so often the wives drove the wagon teams. Margaret drove "Net," her saddle horse as well as buggy horse hitched to her black-fringed, topped boggy loaded with clothes and the children.

During the winter time Tom was employed by the Wood Livestock Company during lambing season and shearing season. He and Margaret lived around Thornton and Union most of the time. Cora attended schools at Independence, Union and Thornton her first three years. Lelah also attended there, but they moved to Arco during the summer, so she began her third year of school there. Tommy had one year to wait before he could start.

Tom and Margaret left the dry farm with not much more than Tom's saddle horse "Dixie" and Margaret's mare "Net" and her black-topped buggy. They gave Dixie to a friend and I can't remember what happened to Net or the buggy. In the spring of 1923 Tom accepted employment with the Utah Construction Company as ranch foreman on ranch number 36, located about six miles out of Arco, Idaho. The Utah Construction Company had built a dam and an irrigation canal to bring the water all the way down to a large area of farming country west of Arco out toward the Craters of the Moon. There were four ranches, each a section or more, under cultivation. Each ranch had a foreman and an assistant, and a blacksmith and cook. Men were hired by the season and according to the work needed to be done. In the summer they raised hay and during the winter they fed sheep. Tom worked year round as foreman and Margaret would work as the cook during the summer months. During the winter months she would move into Arco to put us in school, but we frequently spent weekends on the ranch. Our parents were very anxious that we get a good education. They always saw that we had extra books to read and that we had musical instruments to play. We were given a choice of religion and were always taken to school and church functions. Early fall and late spring we would move back to the ranch and ride horseback to and from school or later on when we had a model T ford Dad would drive us to school. There were always fun rides as he would race with the train or anyone on horseback who wanted to race. There was one hill we didn't always get up the first attempt we made. He would gun the motor and we would cross our fingers. I remember I was always frightened when we had to back down and get another run at it. The Model A we later owned seemed to have more power. I do remember that there were times you had to crank and crank to get the model T started and our job was to push a little knob in slowly when it did start. As I recall the model A was started in a different manner.

During our school years at Arco grade school and high school Tom and Margaret were very active and interested. They enjoyed the numerous basketball games and competitions almost as much as we did. By this time we were living in town year round and Tom had worked at several jobs. Margaret boarded school teachers while he worked at the blacksmith shop, acted as deputy sherrif, worked as a city night watchman, for a while was in business with Nick Jerick in the pool hall, and during the depression worked for a while as the school custodian. He always enjoyed carpenter work and building, and was frequently called upon to help when a house was being built. In later years he enjoyed working for several companies in this capacity.

Cora married after finishing high school in 1932. Lelah finished high and went to Rexburg to enroll at Ricks College. She stayed with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. William Hargrave and her aunt, Mrs. Flossie McGarry and her children. She then taught several years at Ririe, Idaho. Tommy went to Brigham City, Utah with Tom and Margaret late in 1933, but he came back to Arco to finish high school. They had gone down to farm the Bowman ranch but after several years of putting in long hours of work and the profits remaining small they decided to move to Ogden. He worked for the Utah Construction Company again in Nevada for a while.

In about the 1939 Tom and Margaret moved back to Meridian, Idaho, where they did mostly farm work. Tommy joined them later, but he eventually went on to work for a logging company and from there to the Boeing Aircraft training school in Seattle Washington. He worked there until he enlisted in the marines in May of 1942. He served in the South Pacific and received the Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal and the Purple Heart. He died on Guam Island July 23, 1944. His remains were brought back to the United States to the Golden State National Cemetery at San Bruno, California and were buried there on December 29, 1948.

Tom and Margaret made many friends in the Boise valley and Meridian area the short time they lived there. They took an active part in the Grange, and Margaret worked in the Community Church. Governor Bottolfeson, who had been a neighbor and friend in Arco when they all had lived there saw that they were invited and enjoyed many functions at the city in Boise. They would occasionally have an Arco Citizens Day, which they all enjoyed. Tom helped Johnnie Kindred and his dad add a couple more rooms to Johnny's home. By this time Johnny and Cora had two children, Joyce and Gary. Then came Pearl Harbor. It changed everyone's lives. Tommy enlisted in the marines, Johnny and Cora and family moved to Renton, Washington, where John raced that summer, but took employment in the war plant, building Sherman tanks in the fall. Tom went to work for Morrison-Knudson as a carpenter. They were constructing relocation buildings for Japanese-Americans just out of Twin Falls, Idaho. They bought a house trailer and moved to Twin Falls. Lelah had married Alvis Crutchfield in 1936 and they were now living in Twin Falls and had a small son, Richard Alvis, who was born April 30, 1941. For a short time Tom got to enjoy his grandson, but when the project was finished they moved on to Nevada. His work took him to various places. During these war years everyone worked in some capacity. Tom bought a larger trailer, as renting was almost impossible close to the construction work. He worked on the Boulder Dam close to Las Vegas and at Tonapah, various housing projects in the Bay area of California, the building site of Oak Knoll Hospital in Oakland and the airport. He also lived in Livermore and San Jose working on housing projects. In 1950 he went to Wofford Heights, California to build a home for Lelah and Bob Felix. Lelah's husband had died and she remarried while she was working in Civil Service at Long Beach. Bob was working for Southern California Edison, where he is still employed. But they are living in Goleta, California now. They have two girls, one living in Monterey and one attending school at the University of California at Davis. Ann Michelle is attending school as a freshman, and Jacqueline Felix Mangelsdorf and Thomas Mangelsdorf were married December 17, 1967, and are now living in Monterey, California.

Shortly after Tom and Margaret completed the home that had been built for Bob and Lelah, close to Kernville, in the Wofford Heights area, they moved back to Idaho. Tom worked on the Palisade dam north of Idaho Falls, and his last employment before retiring was with the Atomic energy Plant located close to Arco. They decided to live close to the job, so they settled down permanently at Terreton, Idaho. Their area was called Mud Lake. They built a small house, and had a garden spot. For several years Tom worked around at various small carpenter jobs until he was in a car wreck which resulted in his death a year and a half later. He enjoyed the company of his nieces and nephews these last years. Margaret's sister, Belle, together with relatives, gave them a fiftieth wedding anniversary celebration, which they really appreciated and enjoyed. It was held at Rigby, Idaho August 20, 1962. During these last years at Mud Lake area his grandchildren had a chance to visit and get to know him. Cora's children, Joyce and Gary, and their families visited from Montana and Washington. Johnny Kindred had passed away and Cora was making her home in Montana. She spent several months with them. Lelah's children, Richard and Jacqueline, also spent part of a school year with them, and she and Bob came to Idaho as often as they could.

Tom's desire to travel made his work more enjoyable. They lived lives rich in friendship and companionship and chose to settle back in Idaho where they had both been born and raised. They hoped never to lead a useless life or completely retire. They always seemed to agree that "Every day was a beautiful day, if kindness touched it." Their lives saw many changes in our world from horse and buggy transportation to airplanes and even an epic trip to the moon by man. These seemed utterly impossible when they were children, but they lived to see them all materialize. Radio and television are very common now, but they lived for years happy to have a wind-up gramophone.

EMMA PRIEST AND JOSIAH ALPHONSO SCOTT

Emma Priest

Contained herein is a sketch of the life of Emma Priest Scott. We call it a sketch because it is not written by her own hand or thoughts. No brief page or two could possibly hold all of her life experiences. She had a life richly endowed with work, children and the tears, laughter and blessings that encompass such a large brood.

Emma Priest Scott was born September 7, 1892 at Taylor, Bonneville County, Idaho to Edward and Mary Beus Priest. She was the youngest of a family of eight.

During her girlhood she spent a lot of time with her married sisters helping to care for their children.

Her parents moved from Taylor to Independence in Madison County.

Emma Priest

Josiah Alphonso Scott

She and her brother, Tom, were very close. They went to dances together. Uncle Tom's pride and joy was a good fast team of horses and he loved to race them. It was at one of these dances, held at Lorenzo, Idaho that Mother met Sye Scott. His name was Josiah Alphonso Scott, but everyone called him either "Slim" or "Sye." He was an Irishman, six feet tall, and thin with blue eyes and auburn hair. This acquaintance ripened into romance and they were married April 2, 1913 in Rigby, Idaho, Jefferson County, by Bishop George Cordon.

They went to live on the Scott homestead in Menan (then Fremont County, later Jefferson). They lived there for about four and one-half years. By then they had four children Sarah Norma, Robert Allan, Oran Josiah and Mary Wanda. They built a house on the corner East of the old home. That is where they spent the rest of their lives together, and added five more children, Lennes Mark, Alice Mae, Thelda Louie, Lowell Elwood, and LuDean to their family.

Mother (Emma) was baptized a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints on August 4, 1923. Two of her children, Norma and Allan, were baptized that same day in a slough that ran through their yard. The water was really cold because the stream was fed by springs. She was baptized by George M. Larsen. She was active in the Church. She was second counselor in the relief Society of Annis Ward for a number of years. She also taught in M.I.A. (Beehive age group). Later in her life she spent many years as a visiting teacher.

Mother had several hobbies, among which were embroidery and crocheting. She made pillow slips, doilies, quilts and other things for gifts. She did a lot of sewing, which was not exactly in the hobby category, as a lot of clothing had to be made over as it was passed down from child to child.

Another thing she spent a lot of time with was her garden. She always canned the garden produce and also fruit for the winter months. She was always trying to get fruit trees to grow. The yellow transparent tree is still standing and producing every other year. She used to carry water to them from the well. She also had an tree (given to her by Allan) that she spent a lot of time trying to keep alive. Whenever there was a herd of sheep or cows coming down the road one of us would be sent to try and protect the tree which also still stands out on the farm.

Another real important day was when she got her first gas powered washing machine. It was a Maytag. She got it in about 1930. That was the year her last child was born. Mom always worked so hard to have the whitest wash in the neighborhood.

In July 1941 Mother's and Dad's eldest son, Allan, entered the armed services and then in December of 1941, when W.W. II broke out Oran enlisted in the air force. Mother and Dad had the opportunity of traveling to California to see Allan and to Kansas City to visit with Oran before he was sent overseas. They enjoyed these trips very much. They also traveled to California to see Mom's sister, Aunt Lucy.

In September 1944 her husband, Sye, died of a heart ailment. She continued in the church and was sealed to Dad in the Idaho Falls L.D.S. Temple November 23, 1948. Mother never remarried. Mom was left with three children still at home. She stayed on the farm until 1950. At that time Oran bought the farm and Mom moved to Menan for some time, renting Thelma and Glen Watson's home. She and Lennes moved to Rigby. Lennes was a very important part of Mother's life and he was very good to her. Lennes accepted every opportunity for work and took good care of the yard, (and also many of the neighbors yards). He also helped to maintain the home. This companionship continued until Lennes's died in a traffic accident in August 1966.

Mother's health declined steadily after she was alone, and in August of 1971 she moved to the Golden Living Center in Rexburg and later she transferred to the nursing home in Idaho Falls.

At the time of her death she was living at the home of Mrs. J. R. Hunt in Idaho Falls. Mother passed away April 30, 1972. She was preceded in death by two sons: Lowell, age two and one-half and Lennes, age forty-four.
